Great news!!!

I just talked to Jim at Folly's and he said he's got us booked for using the pavillion over the weekend for the JAM. It also has an attached room that is indoor if we want to meet there in case the weather isn't that great.

A few things.

He want's to know how many people are going to camp out there. He has some good prices... $8 per person per night. So pending it's not snowing out, that's a great alternative to those cheap guys out there (including myself). If you can let me know that you're going to stay there then Jim would appreciate it. It's peak fishing there and he'd like to make sure he has room for all of us.

The camp is about 10 miles from the lake. He said the latest the run has reached him is the 2nd week in October and it usually hits the last week in September so we should have plenty of fish there to cast over.

I will probably either camp out or go to someone's house fairly local to stay over just to keep my costs down. I know a few other guys who are probably going to camp out with me. Let me know what your plans are and we can work it all out. Looks like it's all coming together.
