Subject: : Stream Reports
Topic: : Yellow Breeches, Cumberland Co, 2/21/2002
Re: Yellow Breeches, Cumberland Co, 2/21/2002
Author: : 1wt
Date: : 2012/2/25 21:32:27
URL:

Quote:

> I edit and down size all of my photos so they are only 300-400 kbs. I simply change the size from whatever it is, ex; 4,000 x 3,000 down too around 600 x 400 in pixel size.

Good to hear you again, Leaky.
I would never do that! all my pix are high def and I watch a slide show from time to time.
All my pix on photobucket are gone now. I even checked with tech support?
I still can't post on this site, but no big deal. All my past photos are gone, even my first at Conewago. My old site lost all the pix from the past four years! LOL
I still have all my original ten thousand on my Mac and they are full screen 14mp. I can send on e-mail or g-mail with no problem at all. I also have ten years back on disk..... and they still work great.
I was getting tired of posting pix anyway. When the Fishidiot posted pix of the winter stoneflies, they were so small I couldn't see them without a magnifying glass! I clicked, but no big pix appeared! I went to YouTube for the stone tie. This site only allows tiny pix and are too much trouble for me to post!
I'll still text sometimes, but I think this is God's way of helping me not to spotburn! LOL

Tight Lines