An interesting map online is the openstreet map, where people can upload trails that may be small and not on the usual topos. In some places I fish with rhodo and mountain bike or backpacker traffic, small trails that help avoid gnarly bushwhacks appear to be mapped well. Other areas don't have much info at all. Could be worth a look tho.