It seems like I get hung up on the bottom all the time when there is that much leader between the indicator and nymph. So I put the same distance between the two as the water is deep. If the water is two feet deep that is the distance between the indicator and nymph. Don't hang up as much and still catch fish. In fact caught fish on the nymph hanging two feet below in a hole four to six feet deep. Not saying my way is right or even better, but it works for me.
