it might be interesting to note that i have a different catch rate with zug bugs and prince nymphs.

in my household i tye the zugbugs and my girlfriend tyes the princes.

i have tried the "go to" wings instead of biot on prince nymphs with no success on trout(never tried them on steelhead)when regular prince nymphs did fine.

i also think the ribbing adds a lot of flash,not just segmentation or protection to the herl.

zug bugs and princes sure are two nymphs that are hard to beat.
