oh yeah, smallies were being caught, mostly 10 inchers or so. lost one that went about 16. hatch was good, but raising fish seemed less than years past, probably due to the high water. still good smallie fishing though, poppers usually produce for me, streamers also, have to find the fish though, where I go pressure seems to be up compared to years past, lots of bait guys(yep, littering bastards!). might be our economic times, no work, might as well fish, it's cheap! wish they would pick up their trash though, getting tired of carrying it out.
