

Subject: : Fly Fishing Events and Meet-ups

Topic: : Steelhead JAM!

Steelhead JAM!

Author: : ryguyfi

Date: : 2009/8/25 18:25:03

URL:

I figured we should start talking about this if it's going to happen. There should not be a problem for me making it due to only a 2 hour drive, but for those who want to stay longer, or coming from a longer distance we should get some plans in order so that if vacation days are needed they can be taken. Also some people may want to stay a few nights and I have heard that can be tough last minute up there.

For the best weather, and conditions I vote for either late October or early November. There will be plenty of fish and they'll be pretty far up by then. Like I said before I have no history of staying nights or being at a campground so someone else will have to step in if we're interested in having a meeting place, or if it's just going to be streamside. Figure we can get people who want to come talking to get some dates in order. Never know with the weather, but we'll probably just have to pick a date and run with it.

It'll be good to see everyone again I met at the JAM and meet some new faces. Also that whole fishing thing shouldn't be too bad either.

I'll bring the donuts!

Ryan Gouldsbarry