Dryflyguy,

Tiger trout are stocked by the state during adult trout stockings and fingerling stockings. My experience would demonstrate that they occur at a rate of about one per thousand through unintentional mixing. Whether or not they are actively breeding them I don't know, but I remember someone asked once and they said it was intentional to a limited extent.

We get about a half dozen over 6,000 trout raised in our nursery and when stocking a couple thousand trout during preseason and inseason stockings they seem to appear at about the same regularity.
