

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Little J No More

Re: Little J No More

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2007/5/10 6:58:07

URL:

Trubski,

I respect your opinion, and I understand it to some degree. Unfortunately, too many trout anglers catch and keep nearly every legal trout caught, and sometimes C&R is the only choice to maintain quality fishing on some of our most productive streams in the State.

The Little J is crowded, along with a lot of other quality rivers and streams in PA. I've been fly fishing for a long time too, and "back in the day" you could fish most streams a few weeks after opening day without seeing another angler. Not today. I'm guessing that 95% of the miles of streams containing trout are under general regulations, and the Little J is in the 5% with SRs.

Ironically if more waters had special regulations, the problem would be alleviated since that would spread the angling pressure over more miles of streams! Good luck.