I've only done one or two ZG books, they just didn't pull me in.... Whereas Louis Lamour is one of my guilty pleasures. I find it really hard to admit to people that I love his westerns, but damnit, I can't help it. As far as books go, they're formulaic crap, but there's just something about them that's made me read every single one, most more than once.

I don't get it.
