First thing to note is that Tom Shetterly, an active member of the Chestnut Ridge TU that is deeply involved with the Yough is on the Commission and would be an excellent contact.

Second, as much as I fish the Yough and would love to see improvements that benefit fishing interests, I really believe that complaints about a couple week period of water temps in the low seventies (if that high) seem to be a bit of "we want it all and we want it now." By and large, in my opinion, the Army Corps manages to balance appropriately the needs of flood-control (primary), rafting industry (likely way more important from a tourism standpoint than fishing) and fishing itself.

Just one man's opinion.
