

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Nymphing without indicators

Re: Nymphing without indicators

Author: : tomgamber

Date: : 2007/5/17 20:04:20

URL:

Quote:

CaptMatt wrote:

I mostly set the hook just because it feels right or when my leader tightens for a split second.

That's what I like to do..But I keep hearing and reading posts from people who just don't have that "sixth sense" though. My suggestion is geared more toward the person who made the original post. When I started fishing nymphs, shortening the leader really helped me get that feel. Once I had it I rarely use a shorter leader now, but for a beginner, it helps.