Jay,

Don't be afraid to use your freshwater gear for the salt. I used my 9ft 8wt this past summer in the OBX and it performed fine. WF floating line worked well in addition to a clear intermediate tip line all got the job done. I serviced my gear with great detail after the week and all is well!

If I were "salting it" a good bit, I'd look at buying salt-resistant gear (reel, etc.), but for a couple times a year, freshwater gear works well.

Gear-wise, there is minimal transition between fresh and salt...

Let us know how you make out!
