Whether or not a fish's fins will grow back or not depends on how well the "clipper" completes his or her job. If it is done correctly the fish's fins will grow back within a matter of 3 -4 months.

If it is a botched job, the scarring will be too severe that they will never grow back. I have caught fish where the clipped fins are infected and swell up like leeches.

Fish have about the same regeneration power as humans.
