funny enough, I think that I saw you guys that week at Oregon Inlet....(was it tuesday/wednesday?) I was kayaking around the marina and bridge, jealous of the crew wetting their line at the slough! couple of guys had a few nice specks on stringers.

I usually fish alot behind the bodie island lighthouse, but do the majority of my fishing in the surf when I'm there (though next year I'll be hitting propellor slough as well as the lighthouse). Surf fishing more or less sucked that whole week because of the outgoing/incoming storms.

I did have a huge dolphin surface right next to my kayak right in the marina channel though - and that was pretty amazing!

do you guys ever fish new inlet or the south side of oregon inlet?
