Cabelas has good choices, I'm sure within your price range. I would also recommend first going to a local fly shop. I'm not familiar with ones in your area though. Hopefully one of the other guys here can give some better advice on that.

Definitely agree with the 8'6 5wt. You'll get the most use out of it on a wide variety of streams. I echo the sentiments of not getting discouraged and leaving your spinning rod at home. You need to spend time learning how to cast your rod and work your line. If you can, try to hook up with another fly fisherman in the area to give you some pointers. Better yet, go to a local fly shop and get a lesson if you can. You won't regret it!

Good luck!
