This should have you covered on flies too, but you may end up spending $50 on a decent starter set if you get them all.

The above ones are only my opinion, but as shown here, there are many differences of opinion. Just google a picture of each one like i did above and go buy something like it.

May I also recommend picking up a book or searching the internet on basic entymology to learn what you're imitating. Learning about mayflies and their nymphs and caddisflies and their larva is really helpful when buying or tying flies.
