

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Calling salt "fin"attics

Re: Calling salt "fin"attics

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2009/12/5 17:24:04

URL:

A-kid,

Not sure how common they are up around Sarasota, but the Keys are stupid with stingrays. One piece of advice I'd offer to waders is to learn the "stingray shuffle" - in other words, walk with a shuffle that drags the sole of your feet along the bottom. This way you'll kick the rays rather than pinning them and getting jabbed. I've never been "hit" by a ray (had some close calls) and sincerely don't hope to. The results are nasty and extremely painful. It will definitely ruin your vacation. Better to be careful.