FS good info. Yea, getting to learn about the tide stuff. It's kinda funny- I just fish all day long anyway- good conditions or not.

Last year it seemed I caught daytime low tides alot and probably was'nt the best. Scoped some potholes I might be able to try this year if there are low tides- maybe pickup some reds. Never caught one.

FI- rays are around but I have not seen them.

I get the World fishing channel on tv and they have several shows on Florida fishing. Kinda turns my stomach when I watch the tourneys in Boca Grande with 50 boats. Using the big hooks to drag Tarpon over to the weight boat. Or when hooked Tarpon get picked off by a shark. The could care less about fishing- guys are there to win money. Apparantly- It's on like Donkey Kong. Blah.
