We need pictures.

I don't use an extender on the furled leader. I tie a surgeons loop in one end of my tippet and loop to loop this with the far end of the furled leader. I tie my fly on the other end or the tippet.

Less tangles for me as a average caster in tight quarters this way.

If he is not using an extender and cutting the tippet off of the far braided loop on the furled leader, he could be damaging that loop.

The feathercraft with the metal loop looks like its the best.....my next furled leader will be that. Any "hinging" with the metal loop?
