Ohiooutdoorsman, Abbrod may be right but I use the same furled leaders for nymphing (with different tippets) and have no problems. I expected problems with "hinging" when I bought my first Feather-Craft furled leader, that's why I only bought one. I was pleasantly surprised; there is absolutely no hinging. I'd post pictures but I'm internet "challenged" that's why I advise interested people to look at Bob Story's website. His pictures are better than any I could post. Also, if you want to tie your own furled leaders with silver rings you can buy the rings from him.
