

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Chain Pickerel on the fly

Re: Chain Pickerel on the fly

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2009/12/15 21:04:07

URL:

gfen,

Pickerel do indeed seem easier to catch and more numerous in tidal waters in Maryland during the colder months. That's not to say they don't bite during the summer (they do) - perhaps folks are distracted by so many other species available during the warmer months. Whatever the case, the winter months really bring the pickerel fans out in MD.

Here's the weekly fishing report from the MD Dept of Nat Res - if you scroll down to the bottom there is some discussion of the cold weather pickerel fishery.

<http://www.dnr.state.md.us/fisheries/fishingreport/freshwater.asp>