

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : WINDMILLS II

Re: WINDMILLS II

Author: : tomgamber

Date: : 2009/12/23 17:02:26

URL:

Quote:

fritz wrote:

As far as the dams upstate--capital costs may outweigh the amount of mws they would produce. A bigger issue might be access to the grid--just guessing.

My guess is that the water levels fluctuate too much to be able to count on sufficient flows. Not much of a snow pack like out west. I think that's what someone told me when I asked a similar question once.