I have no favorites because most of them tend to be nothing other than talking heads twisting facts and reality to fit their desires and needs.

What spoils streams are those too lazy to pick up after themselves. Those who cross a no trespassing sign without asking the property owner, messing it up for those who were given permission to cross and fish. Those who feel they need to stomp down a major path wrecking every bit of mother nature along the way. And property owners who feel they need to have mowed lawn right up to the water line.
