Most of the boxes I have are the Orvis foam boxes, great for nymphs and terrestrials. A larger one I have has a flat side and ripple for streamers. I like them because they float and I can pick them up at a local fly shop for a reasonable price. For dries, anything with compartments is good, you won't damage the hackle. I've also heard good things about the Scientific Angler's boxes too. The keys for me is which type of fly and does it float.
