
Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Best fly box?

Re: Best fly box?

Author: : roody91

Date: : 2007/6/24 0:27:33

URL:

Hello,

I will throw my two cents ; -) in on this. You get what you pay for. I have had many different flyboxes at different prices. You will think I am crazy to admit this after reading all these other posts but I just received in the mail yesterday what truly is the "best" flybox for a trout fisherman period. It is a custom made Richardson Chest flybox. I am now emptying out all my flyboxes into this one box. I am through hunting through my vest for the right flybox. Like many I had a bunch of boxes for different reasons. What I thought was smart just ended up to be frustrating when I am on a stream. There is only one box that I plan to keep in addition to this one. It is a C&F midge box with threaders that I use for my Griffiths gnats, Al's rats and the other size 28 to 32 tiny flies I use on the Little Lehigh.

I got the box with all the bells and whistles (floatant holder, light holder, magnifying glass and tippet dispenser). It cost a whopping $350 and the workmanship is impeccable.