

---

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Your Go-to favorite fly of all time and then some ?

Re: Your Go-to favorite fly of all time and then some ?

Author: : FlySwatter

Date: : 2010/1/15 12:53:28

URL:

yea-who,

Sorry, didn't mean to corrupt your thread. I spent 8 years in Columbia, SC and there's very little proper trout fishing down there (at least to my PA way of thinking). So, I spent the time fishing warmwater and saltwater species. My folks are in Naples, FL so I spend time there fishing salt. Also, my grandfather and dad were hardcore night bass fishermen.

What I'm saying is fly rods are a great tool for catching EVERYTHING, not just trout.

JayL,

You're right: one fly, no hedging. I'd have to lean towards the bugger in all its incarnations including come head and with dumbbell eyes. We all know the many permutations for fresh water. Tie the body out of Ice Chenille and you're rockin' a great little minnow or shrimp imitation. LOTS of versatility!