Wmass,

Lucky for you I messed up and deleted my whole response. I am not going to take the time to redo it but in short....This is a political diatribe.

This is clearly an article that is laden with misleading statements. I went to the trouble of pointing them out but.... and will do so again if pressed.

Look I am a conservationist and I agree with your point that we need to evaluate a candidates environmental beliefs when we vote but.....

in no particular order

#1 We are a nation at war

#2 Our cities are crumbling from within

#3 immigration

#4 social security

#5 increased dominance on the world stage by russia and china.

I hate to say but in light of the 5 issues above the environment comes dead last.

Even with the biggest pro business president and congress our wild lands would still be better managed than they would be in MOST ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

So go pitch it somewhere else.
