I let mine expire last month. The articles weren't that great anyway. "6 can't miss steelhead patterns" was just six pictures of a fly and a brief recipe on an otherwise unrelated article is a more recent annoyance of mine. And yeah, it is thin. I got a two year subscription at the outdoor show cheap two years ago (duh). Anyway, it went downhill then officially to garbage in that time. I leave them all next to the john or on the coffee table at the pulaski cabin I rent.

I read the mid atlantic guide and fly fish america because they are free, and any internet magazines that don't use that stupid click and drag page turn effect.
