Greetings fellow posters,

Dave added a forum in the site forums area to provide for Announcements and Events regarding Fly Fishing in PA. The purpose of the additional forum is to allow the announcements to hang on a little longer and not roll off the page. This Announcements and Events forum will get less traffic than the main board but probably will be viewed by folks with interest in Announcements and Events. So in effect your audience is not reduced by much.

Posts made to the General Forum and other Forums will be moved there at the Webmasters or Moderators discretion.

As always Announcements and Events for commercial purposes will not be tolerated. Because the nature of these topics sometimes involves an admission fee or commercial business offering the service or event, we will allow some latitude. For instance, a fly shop can announce a nymphing class offered by Joe Bottomflys that has an admission fee but notices of Big Sales or Personal gear swaps and sales will be edited or deleted.

Your cooperation is appreciated,

Maurice
