

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Youth Fly Fishing World Championships

Re: Youth Fly Fishing World Championships

Author: : Heritage-Angler

Date: : 2007/7/8 9:50:50

URL:

Hi Paul - If you click on the link for the Youth Team I posted, and then click on the "members" tab, you'll find the answer to your question. As for the PA Team, we're still waiting to find out the results of the tryouts held last weekend. I had a friend that tried out for the team, and he's getting a little antsy waiting for a response. There was about a dozen kids that attended the tryouts, and some of them looked awesome! The Team USA guys that ran the tryouts really did a nice job and provided a terrific learning experience for the kids, and even the ones that don't make the team will be better fishermen for their experience. The coach of Team USA (John Wilson), drove in from Arkansas with his two sons (at his own expense!), and just worked tirelessly to help these kids. He's one of the most amazing individuals I've ever met. I've also met some of the current members of the youth team, and they are great kids - they really ARE your typical "All American" caliber young people. They fully deserve all the support we here in PA can provide.