i dont like my chest pack its a pain if your a smaller guy which i am not i imagine you would not have this problem but it sits too far out and i cannot see where im putting my feet when wading which can be dangerous.... ill be switching to a waist pack hopefully i can find something to carry all my crap..... i carry 4 fly boxes small box with shot indicators atleast 5 spools of leader and tippet sometimes a spool of 4 lb mono i too wouldnt mind a hydration bladder but if your drinking on the stream peeing on the stream is sort of an ordeal in chest waders.....especially in the winter or when the fish are hot sorry for the ramblings

I hate the chest packs with a large front compartment for the reason you wrote. I like the ones with two separate compartments on each side. Mine works well for me.
