I have been lurking this thread because I sympathize with the plight. Except my preference is for a pastel pink so light it is nearly white/cream/beige, yet clearly pink.

The ultra chenille used in the top SJW I got at FFP a few years ago.

The bottom SJW is what I prefer and I can't find anything that light anymore.

Note that I soaked these in water before photographing them.

My rational mind knows I am placing more emphasis on this than is really warranted, but my fisherman's mind knows I fish best with what I have confidence in. Unfortunately, my fisherman's mind always wins this internal debate.
