

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : leader to fly line connection

Re: leader to fly line connection

Author: : albatross

Date: : 2007/7/20 11:28:21

URL:

I actually use a short piece of braided backing nail knotted to the fly line as my loop (Gray's Loop). Works for me!

I found the heavy mono at the butt of a leader makes a nail knot that's tough to get through your guides. I don't trust the slip on braided loops.

Here are some alternatives Line2Leader

Good knots here knots including the Gray's loop knot I use to make a loop from backing at the end of my fly line.