

Subject: : Fly Fishing Events and Meet-ups

Topic: : 3/20/10 Lehigh Valley Tying/fishing "Mini Jam"

3/20/10 Lehigh Valley Tying/fishing "Mini Jam"

Author: : Heritage-Angler

Date: : 2010/3/3 18:03:09

URL:

To all PAFF members:

On Saturday March 20th, at 10AM, we will be gathering at "A Sporting Lifestyle" for a morning of fly tying. Esteemed PAFF member "Old Lefty" (Dave Rothrock) will be in attendance to pass on tying tips, and show/tie a few patterns that apply to the fishing we will be doing later in the day. This event is free to all PAFF members, friends, and families.

We will break for a quick lunch at 1PM (at Cali Burrito down the street - great food, under $10), and then head out to fish around 2PM. We'll be able to put the new flies we just tied to use, and see their effectiveness put to the test. With the change to daylight savings time on 3/14, we should have plenty of daylight to get several hours of fishing in. We'll do our best to put folks on fish. 🍷

Anyone planning on attending should post it here in this post. I also need you to PM me for a choice of fishing destinations, so we can plan on whether to fish the Baetis hatch, or the little black stonefly hatch. I'd like to keep our destination private for the time being, for obvious reasons.

Join us for what will surely be a great day of learning, both at the tying bench, and on stream!

H.A.