hence... wading jacket. I have two: a heavy lined, more expensive for winter, and a lighter material, inexpensive (60 bucks) for spring/fall. unless it's june-september and you're in a t-shirt, its the way to go. no casting/walking obstruction, and more than adequate storage and access.. not too mention looking good, which is more than half the battle ;)

if it's summer, I don't even see the need for fly boxes. 4 to 6 flies on your hat, a spool of tippet, and an extra leader is all you really need.
