

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Droppers

Re: Droppers

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2010/3/12 15:39:40

URL:

If I'm fishing nymphs dead drift, I usually just tie a foot or two of additional monofilament to the eye of the lead fly that is already tied on. Tie the "trail" fly to this new piece of mono. Works for me. I also use this method most of the time for dropper systems in which the lead fly is a floating fly. When you use a dropper system in which the lead fly floats and the trail fly sinks, this is usually known as a "hopper dropper."