

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Fly Rod Selection for Beginners

Re: Fly Rod Selection for Beginners

Author: : AlwaysWading

Date: : 2010/3/13 12:35:37

URL:

I started out under the watchful eye of the gent who taught me from A to Z. I used one of his setups until I was comfortable enough to work water on my own. At that time I bought what I could afford and worked my way up from there.

For me since I do mostly native streams, I started out short and fast action which felt best for me.

I built on that setup, for some of the larger water like the Lehigh, then moved onto a steelie setup.

Now I pretty much have everything I need to work most if not all water in PA and most surrounding states.