

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Fly Rod Selection for Beginners

Re: Fly Rod Selection for Beginners

Author: : njk3395

Date: : 2010/3/13 13:25:46

URL:

I pretty much do exactly what gemiller does. I believe if you are starting out a 8'6-9' 5 or 6 wt. medium action is the easiest to get the hang of. And, that setup is fine if you plan to mainly fish bigger streams and rivers. But, for me, most of my fishing is done in tighter quarters. I use a 7'6 3 wt. Superfine. I prefer a slow action rod for smaller streams for increased accuracy and delicacy. So, the superfine fits me perfectly. Fly rod choice is a matter of preference, you have to try a bunch of different rods and see what you like. Every angler is different