

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : More Muskie Stuff

Re: More Muskie Stuff

Author: : David

Date: : 2010/3/14 18:40:31

URL:

Quote:

Fredrick wrote:

Well we did a lot of talking this winter now are we gonna back it up ?

Yep, today! With all the streams blown out and the local put and take lake completely ice free for a couple days, I thought I would scout and try out the new water skeeter float tube. I went to moraine state park and was greeted by ice fisherman. Not what I was hopin' for!

Thought if I could find some open water in a back bay, it would likely be the warmest water in the lake. I found some.

I kicked up three muskies that I saw and a couple more plumes of mud that were some kind of fish taking off. I had cast over the muskies before each one they took off....they obviously weren't interested in chasing.

I worked a good ways down the bank fishing primarily in 1-3 feet of water. I hooked one muskie while fishing my way back. It jumped, I bowed, it stayed hooked. Not huge, but it was a nice 30"-35" fish. It made another run, then the line went slack. Nice to connect, though!

So start looking in the shallows of your local still waters!