I have a Richardson.

I can't break it, can't lose it, and it holds a LOT of flies.

I have a 3 tray model. It in no way interferes with my casting or wading.

And I never have to go back to the car for another box of flies.

That said, before I spent the bucks on the Richardson. I used the C&F boxes -- for all the reasons already posted.

And before that.....altoids tins!

They all work! :)

Just gotta find what suits your style best.

Cheers,
Dewey
