Man, Northshore's website is useless...but when you find your way into their store, you find their Element versions. Ditch the casting platform, and the Madison is only $699, a more or less negligible increase (all things considered what you're dropping) from the closet competitor I would consider, the Colorado XT. I don't think I want, or need, a standing platform.

Scadden Skykomish ST Element

(FWIW, it appears the casting platform is a $450 option, so it makes sense to buy it if you expect you'll want it, and save $250 in the long run, but whatever)

If you get serious about buying one of these, remember the "H.A. Network". It will make you smile. 😊
