An interesting topic, and one that I have talked and read a lot about. I appreciate the extent to which you covered it Jay. On the Gunpowder, the mantra is "If you want to take more fish, you have to use 7X." More specifically, when the water is low and gin clear in July and August, I suppose that if you get close enough to cast to the trout, it wouldn't matter what size tippet you had on, now would it?

So my question is this...does a lighter tippet reduce the spook factor?
