

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Winter fishing

Re: Winter fishing

Author: : thedude1534

Date: : 2007/7/27 11:09:38

URL:

I fished a lot this winter, and scuds were the most productive for me. However, I was mostly fishing Valley Creek. On other creeks, BHHE (size #14 and #16 in grey, brown, olive, black), BHPT (#14, #16, #18), midges (zebra and tiger), eggs, and San Juan Worms after rain were working.

I generally used a lot of beadheads or heavy weighted flies with lots of added splitshot to keep them as close to the bottom as possible. It means you get hung up a lot, but from my experience, if I wasn't getting hung up every 3-5 casts, I wasn't catching fish either.....