

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Fly-fishing for Wild Trout

Re: Fly-fishing for Wild Trout

Author: : oncorhynchusmykiss

Date: : 2010/3/22 20:29:36

URL:

I go with dry flies. I have no problem catching browns even on dries. Attractor patterns work well. Browns are not really any more difficult than brookies. If anything I find brookies are harder to approach. Rainbows are a different story, they seem to be really dumb and you can get about three feet away from them without spooking them. 🏆 They seem to blend in better though. I guess it varies from person to person and stream to stream. ALWAYS PRACTICE CATCH AND RELEASE!
tight lines!