

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Casting accuracy and distance - am I doing OK for a newbie?

Re: Casting accuracy and distance - am I doing OK for a newbie?

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2010/4/6 8:32:39

URL:

Ref,

You're definitely doing well. And the rod you've got will serve you well on the big waters like the Yough. While casting a smaller rod will take some practice and involve a different feel, your casts will be much shorter. For small streams, practice casting around some obstacles and, as Ry said, with a sidearm motion. Overall, you're certainly on-target both literally and figuratively. As for the double haul, I think it's fun to learn but almost never necessary for trout fishing. If you plan to cast bass bigs on big rivers like the lower Yough or Allegheny, then a double haul will help.