Yes, I agree the stakes are too high. I am willing to give in to the propaganda because it makes sense to be more energy efficient from both an economic and foreign policy standpoint. But we could be wrong and could have unforeseen even more dire consequences of our efforts. Or we could be successful only to have a giant meteor pummel earth and have it all be a moot point. At least we'll have another couple Bono benefit concerts to enjoy because of it. Carpe diem.
