Hi there; it sounds like we are at about the same level of development; you may even be a bit ahead of me 😊

At the begining of my outings, it usually takes me a while for my casting "settle down" so I can make accurate casts (more or less) consistently.

In addition to what others have said, practice casting your fly under low under-hanging branches. This skill will come in handy in the next 2 to 3 months when fish begin to feed on terrestrials in earnest. 🎣
