what nymph or what dry or emerger a person is going to use at a given time is totally preference , can a person go out anytime and fish for 6hrs and catch a few trout on a PT nymph ....u bet , can u fish 6hrs with a hares ear and catch a few fish ...u bet , but to catch alot of fish you have to feed them the same thing god is feeding them , they key in on whatever food source is the most abundant and easiest to get , when fishing grannoms , people can't figure out why fish don't key in on floating duns or emergers popping out of the film , they are taking em off the bottom , especially in the evening when the females swim back to ther bottom to lay eggs , why swim to the top when there is a tasty meal infront you ? so i guess you can fish whatever nymph u want or you can match what they are "really" feeding on , take your pic its a decision we all make when we arrive at the stream
