

---

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Knot tying from fly line to Leader

Re: Knot tying from fly line to Leader

Author: : wingshot

Date: : 2010/4/27 15:39:37

URL:

Re: Knot tying from fly line to Leader #2

Joined:

2007/4/8 20:43

From Lehigh Valley

Posts: 1245

Nail knot a piece of mono on the end with a perfection loop in the end. Perfection loop your leaders, problem mostly solved.

The perfection loop is easy, and any good fly shop should help you with a nail knot if you can't get it with practice. I own a tool called a Tie-Fast (functionally the same as this that makes nail knots completely painless. I bought mine at Dick's or Walmart, and it was well worth the $10 I paid for it.

I would second the above advice and add that I use a piece of #25 Amnesia mono either in Hi-Vis Red or Chartruse. The Tie-Fast tool makes an excellent knot and I usually hit it with some UV glue (LOON) the colored mono acts just like a strike indicator and straightens out nice even when on the spool for a while. I use about a 10 to 12 inch piece and loop my leader directly to it.

Jeff